continue to build and improve LastPass for our free, Premium, and Enterprise customers. Together with LogMeIn, we'll be able to accomplish more, faster – providing an even better service to millions of people. As we become part of the LogMeIn family over the next several months, we'll be releasing updates to LastPass, introducing new features, and continuing to grow the service as we work to bring LastPass to millions more who struggle with passwords.

While some of us here do use LastPass and are fond of it, LogMeIn has a habit of acquiring free services, then eventually end up charging for them to increase its profit margins.

Personally, I subscribe to the Premium version, which is only $12/year. However, I sure hope it doesn't end up costing more in the end.

With HBO NOW finally on Roku, it almost completes the circle for cord-cutters to be able to watch it virtually anywhere they want and on any device. Two glaring omissions, however, are the XBOX and PlayStation, but it's reasonable to assume the game consoles will get it eventually, too.
